PRINTING TYPES

Awiprises Sports
CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

SCREEN PRINTING is a process where ink is forced through a mesh screen onto a surface. making certain areas of the screen impervious to printing ink creates a stencil, which blocks the printing ink from passing through the screen. the ink that passes through forms the printed image.

PUFF PRINTING is a screen printing technique that uses heat-activated ink to create a raised, three-dimensional effect. It's often used on clothing like t-shirts and hoodies.

PRINTING TYPES

SILICONE PRINTING is a printing process that uses silicone ink to create designs on a variety of surfaces. It can be done using screen printing or pad printing techniques.

WATER-BASED printing is a special ink that gets absorbed by the fabric, rather than sitting on top like plastisol printing. So when the final product is complete, it feels like nothing is there! It's soft and breathable. That is what makes water-based printing special and different.

PRINTING TYPES

Awiprises Sports
CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

DIRECT-TO-FILM (DTF) printing is a digital printing method that uses a heat press to transfer designs from a film to fabric. DTF printing is durable and can be used on many different fabrics and colors.

DIRECT-TO-GARMENT (DTG) printing is a method that uses inkjet technology to print designs directly onto fabric. It's a digital process that produces high-resolution, color-rich prints.

PRINTING TYPES

SUBLIMATION PRINTING

is a digital printing process that uses heat, pressure, and time to transfer dye onto different materials.

Here's the full process:

You print a design onto special transfer paper using sublimation inks.

Then, you place the printed paper onto a product and heat it with a heat press.

PRINTING TYPES

Awiprises Sports

PVC PATCH

is made from a durable plastic material called polyvinyl chloride, which has a rubber-like feel but is not made from actual rubber.

LEATHER EMBOSSED PATCH

a piece of leather with a raised design or pattern created using a technique called embossing, where a design is imprinted into the leather surface using heat and pressure.

PRINTING TYPES

Awiprises Sports
CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

FLOK 3D PRINTING

flocking, a finishing technique that adds a velvety, plush texture to 3D printed objects by applying tiny fibers (flock) to an adhesive-coated surface.

GLITTER FLOK 3D PRINTING

a combination of glitter effects and flocking (a technique of applying tiny fibers to a surface) to create a unique, textured, and sparkly finish on 3D-printed objects.

PRINTING TYPES

FOLK PRINTING

a form of printmaking, utilizes simple, often hand-carved wood blocks to create prints, often with a focus on popular subjects and themes, rather than artistic skill or detail.

3D SILICONE PRINTING

EMBROIDERY TYPES

EMBROIDERY

The process of embroidery is to first thread an embroidery needle with thread or yarn. Then, starting at the back of the textile, work the needle and thread through the fabric, and return through the fabric to the backside of the tapestry.

This is the same for all embroidery, other than surface embroidery

3D PUFF EMBROIDERY

The 3D effect is achieved by placing foam on the surface of the cap or garment and embroidering the design on top of the foam. The foam stays puffed up beneath the stitches, so this process produces a raised or 3D, version of the design.

EMBROIDERY TYPES

CHENILLE EMBROIDERY is a textured embroidery technique that uses yarn to create a fuzzy, carpet-like look. It's often used for clothing, pillows, and patches.

DISTRESSED EMBROIDERY is a technique that involves creating a design with a distressed look, often using applique. The process can include sketching, sewing, cutting, and fraying.

EMBROIDERY TYPES

PATCH EMBROIDERY

First, a fabric backing is cut to shape. To prevent fraying, the edges of the backing are heat-sealed. Then, the thread is stitched into place. Some designs incorporate the backing as the background of the patch, while others completely cover the backing with stitches.

DYING PROCESS

Awiprises Sports
CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

The SUN FADE process is a method of bleaching fabric using ultraviolet (UV) light from the sun. This process is also known as photodegradation.

During the STONE WASHING process, pumice stones of varying shapes and hardness abrade the denim fabric to scrape off dye and create fading effects. Larger, harder stones are used for heavyweight denim while smaller, softer stones work better for lightweight denim fabrics.

Awiprises Sports
CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

SPRAY WASH is a dyeing or finishing technique where a garment is selectively sprayed with color or bleach to create a faded, vintage, or distressed look.

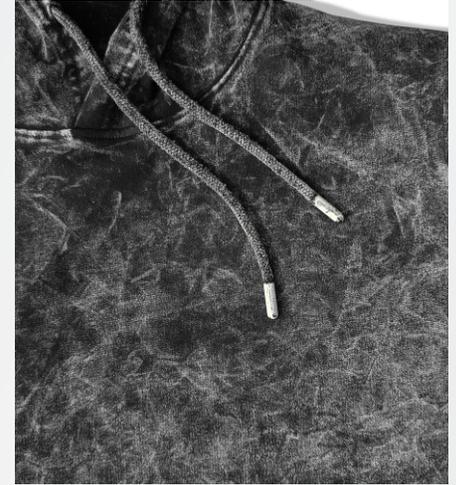

DYING PROCESS

Awiprises Sports
CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

ACID WASHING is a fabric treatment that uses acids or bleach to create a faded, blotchy look on clothing. It can be used on many fabrics, including denim, canvas, twill, and sweaters.

THE TIE-DYE PROCESS involves folding, twisting, or crumpling fabric, securing it with rubber bands or string, and then applying dye. The fabric manipulations are called resists, and they prevent the dye from coloring the fabric in certain areas.
